

2021 BHEF Scholarship Recipients

Carson Bates holds himself to a high standard to be a good role model. During his BHHS career he was a three-sport athlete, was active in choir and drama and maintained a 4.0 gpa. Of all of his accomplishments, he most proud of obtaining his Wyoming realtors license while still in high school. Carson is attending the University of Wyoming this fall, pursuing a computer science degree.

Garrett Custis is a young man of few words but much character. He played three sports and maintained high academic marks through high school, but also placed a significant emphasis on civic engagement. He was an active member of the National Honor Society, Key Club and Ram Mentors program. Garrett is enrolled at the University of Wyoming, studying pre-medicine.

Amelia Gee is ambitious and passionate about youth and education. During her high school career she was a three-sport, team captain, all-conference athlete and was able to attain her associates degree from Sheridan College. Amelia enjoyed helping with the elementary summer school program, and now is studying elementary education at the University of Wyoming.

Cassie Guelde is a high achiever but feels it is most important to be kind and a good person. While attending BHHS, she served as a student representative on the SCSD1 school board and managed to earn her associates degree. As Miss Wyoming Outstanding Teen 2021, Cassie is spending the year in civic service, encouraging others to engage with special needs communities.

Gentry Latin believes in being true to oneself and strives to be an advocate for others. He deeply values the support and encouragement he received from teachers, coaches and community members. Gentry is enrolled in the gunsmithing program at Eastern Wyoming College, and is looking forward to representing the Big Horn community as a skilled tradesman.

Sterling Madry bleeds maroon and gold and exemplifies Ram spirit. During his senior year, he served as student body president and seized the opportunity to focus on relationships and volunteerism thereby leaving a lasting impact on the school and community. Attending the University of Wyoming this fall, Sterling will begin his pursuit of a law degree with a bachelor's in business.

Dalton Nelson has high expectations of himself and always strives to do his best whether in school, musically or athletically. Through his BHHS career, he golfed, played baseball and was the state bowling champion two years in a row. Attending the University of Wyoming this fall to study civil engineering, Dalton intends on solving problems to help as many people as possible.

Chrysanthi Paninos loves Big Horn High School and the opportunities it has given her to connect with her peers and teachers. As a Ram, she was an athlete, mentor, scholar, coach, volunteer, musician, and much more. Chrysanthi is attending the University of Wyoming this fall. While she is uncertain about her path, she is passionate about environmental issues so may pursue that route.

Kendall Redinger is nothing if not authentically himself. Not only did he graduate at the top of his very academically advanced class, he is also a skilled craftsman, even having built his own ban saw. After college he plans to return to Sheridan and may very well join the BHEF Board. Kendall is studying architectural engineering at the University of Wyoming this fall.
