

2022 BHEF Scholarship Recipients

Cody Baker is described as a “phenomenal student” with an intrinsic motivation to succeed. He graduates from Sheridan College at the same time as his high school graduation. He knows how important it is to get into the community to make a better world for others. Cody heads to the University of Wyoming, with visions of studies abroad and graduate school.

Garrett Baker is a top student, Eagle Scout and community volunteer, and “uncommonly kind human being,” with an unmatched work ethic. Following a church mission, Garrett intends to attend college in Wyoming or Utah, with visions of a specialized medical career, potentially combined with computer science.

Rachel Bishop is seen as both highly intelligent and compassionate, as she finishes high school with an amazing academic record. Rachel has learned the value of helping others and plans to work to be a leader and mentor to younger people, as she embarks on her studies in the field of physical therapy at Dixie State University.

Emma Hahn is a highly motivated student and heavily engaged in school activities, as she completes her time at BHHS as student body president. She is making civic engagement a high priority, having learned that it is one of the best things a person can do in life. Emma sees Arizona State University as the place to pursue her education in computer science.

Elissa Heermann has an incredible record of involvement in community service activities, sports and school groups, having recognized the huge impact she can have when she sees the reaction of others she helps. She values leadership, independence and integrity, while showing others that she is clever and funny. Elissa will combine studies in education and in business at Northern Arizona University.

Kylee Lamb is described as a self-motivated, super-active young woman with the ability to think outside the box. Kylee has chosen to pursue a technical education in creative and high-tech welding, which she really loves, with the intent to live her life in the Sheridan area, where she can give back to the community that has given so much to her.

2022 BHEF Scholarship Recipients

Dawson Mitchell is a highly-focused student, with an understanding of culture, language and ideology that made it hard for instructors to recognize that he was still a young high school student. Dawson sees learning as a life-long project, but will begin his college-level work studying graphic design at Arizona State University.

Joshua Thompson is graduating with an impressive list of high school achievements and awards in both academics and sports. Josh will enter Rocky Mountain College, pursuing a business degree, with a strong understanding that the road to self-improvement is acquiring knowledge, at the same time he is giving back to the community to make it better for others.

Sean Walker has an amazing record of involvement in school activities, student government and sports, while simultaneously maintaining the most perfect academic record. Sean will enter the University of Wyoming for a long road to a medical degree, while never losing sight of his varied interests in music, art, literature and language.
